about embryonic stem cells

We live in a brave new world with the promise of stem cells and the paradox of cloning. Do you have to kill a baby to be able to harvest stem cells? Star Trek and Star Wars notwithstanding, should we be cloning humans? What are the social, economic, and spiritual dimensions of all this? As a neuroscientist, theologian, ethicist and priest, Father Tadeusz Pacholczyk, Ph. D. brings you a unique perspective.

His doctorate is from Yale. He's worked several years as a molecular biologist at Mass General/Harvard Medical School. He studied for five years in Rome doing advanced work in dogmatic theology and bioethics. He's an expert on stem cell research, cloning, and other biotechnologies.

Join him for breakfast and a fascinating speech as the Catholic Professional and Business Group continues its monthly guest speaker series-- your chance to mingle with business people from all walks of life who, like you, want to live better in this world while they prepare for the next.

Thursday, October 16, Silver Baron Meeting Room A, Silver Legacy, 7:00 am - 8:30 am. With breakfast, $25. All are welcome.
